

Guthrie, Pfeiffer Named To Head Kernel

Jack R. Guthrie, a journalism junior from Louisville, has been named editor-in-chief of the Kernel for next year by the Board of Student Publications.

John F. Pfeiffer, Louisville, was appointed campus editor.

The board did not name a managing editor.

Guthrie, who has served as a daily news editor this year, was recently elected president of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic society. He is also managing editor of Moot magazine and a member of Sigma Chi social fraternity.

In high school, Guthrie was a staff member of the Trinity Echo. He edited the Trinity alumni magazine for two years, and is presently head of the board of directors and past president of the Trinity Alumni Association.

He was a member of the Bellarmine College Concord staff and the Voice of St. Matthews, a weekly newspaper.

Pfeiffer, a sophomore, was editor of his high school newspaper, the Shawnee Lantern. He is a member of Sigma Delta Chi, Delta Tau Delta social fraternity, and Keys, sophomore men's honorary.

He ranked in the upper three percent of the College of Arts and Sciences in the 1961 Honors Day program.

Currently a Kernel staff-writer, Pfeiffer will be employed this summer by the Louisville Courier-Journal. He received a Courier-Journal scholarship last year.

Other staff appointments include:

Assistant managing editors: Richard G. Wilson, Towanda, Pa.; John P. Gaines, Bowling Green; William Rifenburgh, Portchester, N.Y.; and Nancy Moore, Washington, D.C.

Assistant campus editors: Elizabeth Thurber, Louisville; Diane Allen, Versailles; Joyce Strohmaier, Toledo, Ohio; and Nancy Loughridge, Lexington.

Daily news editors: Sue Endicott, Toledo, Ohio; Peter M. Jones, Morris Plains, N.J.; Warren N. Pope, Catlettsburg; Beverly Pedigo, West Richfield, Ohio.

Sports editor: Ben Fitzpatrick, Lexington.

Sports staff: William Martin, Harrodsburg; Richard Stevenson, Cadiz; David Hawpe, Louisville; Dan Omior, Coraopolis, Pa.

Advertising manager: Dick Wallace, Lexington.

Summer editors: Pope, Loughridge, and Elam.

Houlihan, Withers To Direct Kyian

Edward Houlihan, a junior journalism major from Winchester, has been named editor of the 1963 Kentuckian yearbook.

Ann Withers, sophomore philosophy major from Louisville, will be associate editor; and Ronald MacLeod, junior journalism major from Lexington, was appointed managing editor.

Houlihan is a member of the Interfraternity Council rush committee, the YMCA executive committee, and recording secretary of Delta Tau Delta social fraternity.

He served as photographer at St. Bernard Preparatory school in Cullman, Ala., for both the school newspaper and yearbook. He was also head of the publicity department at St. Bernard College his freshman year.

This year, he served as fraternity editor of the Kentuckian.

Miss Withers is activities chairman of Alpha Xi Delta sorority. She has served on the Committee of 240 and the SUB Social Committee.

She was coeditor-in-chief of her high school yearbook for three years at Surret High School in Louisville.

Miss Withers has served on the general staff of the Kentuckian and as head of coed organizations. MacLeod is a member of Kappa Sigma social fraternity and works for the Herald-Leader.

Other staff appointments are Eugene Sayre, Florence, business manager; Ann Todd Jeffries, Columbia, associate editor and bookkeeper.

Kathleen Cole, Euclid, Ohio, layout editor; Sarah Powers, Richmond, Ind., organizations.

LaDonna LeaVelle, Miami, Fla., seniors; Ted Kuster, Paris, Greeks; Russ Weikel, Louisville, sports.

Jane Fraser, Lexington, culture and administrative; Barbara Sutton, Arlington, Va., beauty and residence halls.

Combs Addresses Press Conference

By WAYNE GREGORY, Kernel Campus Editor

FRANKFORT—Gov. Bert T. Combs told a press conference yesterday that two-year community colleges would not jeopardize larger state institutions.

The governor said the purpose of several community colleges is to "take junior colleges closer to the students," some of whom would discover they were not capable of doing college or university level work.

He added: "Kentucky in the last four years has had the highest increase in expenditures on education of any other state."

His statement came in reply to a query by Jack R. Guthrie, Kernel editor-elect.

Gov. Combs and members of his cabinet appeared before about 100 college journalists from 23 Kentucky colleges in the chamber of the House of Representatives.

The question arose about the maintenance or abolishment of Kentucky State College here. Gov. Combs replied, "In my judgment, it will be maintained."

About an hour later, a Kentucky State student, Viola Amos, delivered a 10-minute impromptu speech on the position of Kentucky State in the Frankfort community and the commonwealth.

She criticized certain elements in Frankfort for their attitude toward integration. She leveled her attack primarily at the Frankfort State Journal.

She said integration was a two-way street. Negroes should be able to take advantage of white facilities and whites should be able to take advantages of Negro facilities, she explained.

She added some whites who Myra Leigh Tobin and Deno Curris were awarded the Sullivan Medallions yesterday during the Honors Day Convocation in Memorial Hall.

The Sullivan Medallion is awarded on the basis of "the possession of such characteristics of heart, mind, and conduct as evince a spirit of love for and helpfulness to other men and women." It is considered the highest honor the University can bestow upon a student.

Dr. Frank G. Dickey, University president, presented 223 students with certificates recognizing their academic achievements.

Miss Tobin is a senior home economics major from Harned. She is a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority and has an academic standing of 3.65.

A student in nominating Miss Tobin for the award said: "When one comes in contact with a student whose actions and activities reflect a true and intrinsic desire to serve, a sincere devotion to purpose, and high ethical standards, he is truly impressed. Such is my characterization of Myra Tobin."

Miss Tobin was president of her freshman dormitory; Cwens, sophomore women's honorary; her sorority; and the Student Union Board. She is a member of Alpha Lambda Delta, freshman women's honorary, and Phi Upsilon Omicron, home economics honorary.

She was named the outstanding Greek woman during her junior year and was cochairman of the Little Kentucky Derby.

Curris, a political science major from Lexington, has been a member of the University varsity debate team for four years. He was named the top speaker at the national tournament of Tau Kappa Alpha, national speech honorary.

Dr. Leslie L. Martin, dean of men, said in presenting Curris the award, "It is fitting that on this 35th anniversary of the Sullivan Awards, the University honors a man who is one of the most deserving and most uniquely qualified candidates in the long tradition of eminent recipients."

Curris has an academic average of 3.7 and has been awarded a fellowship for graduate study in political science at the University of Illinois. He is a member of Sigma Chi fraternity.

For the past two years, Curris has served as a member and chairman of the Student Congress Judiciary Board and as a residence hall counselor.

The Most Distinguished Teacher award was presented to Staley F. Adams, associate professor of mechanical engineering. Mr. Adams gave the address on the topic, "The Student-Faculty Team."

He said, "Thinking is the transfer of learning to new situations. I hope to impress upon all of you what a difficult job it is when you undertake to introduce the new college student to intellectuality. Basically, it is almost against the laws of society."

Mr. Adams explained, "It is imperative that you help foster a spirit that will produce a closer cooperation between the staff and students. Every instructor continues to be a student, and every student must learn to become his own instructor in later life."

Bob Roach, president of Lances, presided over the convocation. Kathy Roper White, Mortar Board representative, recognized the honor students.

Alumni Group Plans Picnic For Seniors

The Alumni Association is sponsoring a picnic for all seniors on Thursday, May 31, at Spindletop Hall on the Iron Works Pike.

Activities will begin at 4 p.m. and a barbecue will be served during the evening.

Letters were sent out yesterday to all seniors telling them about the event. It will be informal and the pool will be open for student use.

Because of the large number of seniors the association is inviting class members only. They cannot bring dates. However, husbands or wives of senior class members are invited.

The event was arranged by the

4-H Club Meeting

The 4-H club will meet at 7 p.m. Monday in Room 128 of the Student Union Building. This is to be the last meeting of the school year.

Correction Made On Schlaifer Talk

Harvard Prof. Robert Schlaifer's lectures today are not primarily intended for law students as reported in yesterday's Kernel. The lectures are open to all interested in statistics.

The 9 a.m. lecture will be technical and the 12 noon lecture will be nontechnical.

The lectures are sponsored by the Commerce Department and not by the College of Law as indicated by the headline of yesterday's story. The lectures are open to the public.

4 Cadets Awarded Gold, Silver Medals

Four University cadets will be awarded Chicago Tribune ROTC Medals at the annual Awards Day Ceremony scheduled for 8 a.m. tomorrow.

Gold Medals will be presented to Cadet Lt. Col. Thomas Wilton Price and Cadet Lt. Bradley

Burton Cox. Recipients of Silver Medals will be cadets William Duke Myers and Karl Heinz Horn.

The medals are being awarded in recognition of scholastic achievement and proficiency in the study of military science.

Kyians Go On Sale Monday

The 1962 Kentuckian yearbook, expanded to include 10 extra pages of student activities, will be distributed from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Monday through Friday in the Journalism Building.

Undergraduates must present ID cards or receipts to verify their purchase. Seniors must have paid the $9 graduation fee and have the receipt with them.

This year's beauty section was photographed in homes in Lexington and on horse farms. All the 11 women are dressed in formal.

June Moore, 1962 Kentuckian Queen, reigns over the beauty section. She will represent UK at the Mountain Laurel Festival.

The yearbook includes seven sections which have a "more conservative and formal" look, according to Charlie Stone, Kentuckian editor.

Each of the sections is separated by a page with different types of architecture which set the theme. Preceding the Greek section is a picture of a home with huge Greek columns.

Eight pages of color highlight the yearbook. There is also a different layout for the senior pictures, and school organizations are grouped under colleges.

"The overall quality of reproduction of the yearbook is better," commented Stone.

A limited number of annuals will be on sale. The price is $7.50.

Forgiveness Week

Tomorrow is the last day of the Margaret I. King Library "Forgiveness Week." All books returned by tomorrow will be accepted with no fines assessed.

Committee Named To Plan For International Center

A committee was elected last week to plan details for the International Center of the University.

Members of the committee include Tom Greenland, chairman, John Marta, Linda Duncan, Subadio Susetyo, and Tony Montado. Shafiq Kazaz is first alternate.

The committee, chosen by a group comprised of foreign students, Cosmopolitan Club members, Student Congress members, Kentuckian editor Charlie Stone shows the 1962 yearbook to University President Frank G. Dickey. The yearbook will go on sale from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday in the Journalism Building.

Ashland Center Plans Literary Publication

The Ashland Center literary magazine, Centerpieces, will be published this spring, marking the first such venture at the extension campus.

Officials said response to the publication has been good and all submitted material is now being judged by the staff of the Ashland English Department. In each division, the first, second place, and honorary mention manuscript will be included in the magazine.

Centerpiece will be printed by the University of Kentucky Press, as soon as the editing, organizing, and layout work is done at Ashland.

Miss Roberta Nolan was named editor but other staff members have not yet been announced. Miss Nolan is also editor of the weekly student newspaper.

Kiwanis Group Chartered At UK

A Kiwanis sponsored service organization known as "Circle K" is currently being chartered at the University.

"Circle K," a college level service organization sponsored by Kiwanis International, has already been formed and is working actively on the campuses of Murray, Wesleyan, and the University Center at Ashland.

The University of Tennessee has the largest "Circle K" organization in the nation. All of its activities are designed to be of service to the school and community.

To be eligible for membership, one must have a 2.0 standing, and because of UK's not having any charter members as yet, an eligible member must be approved by the faculty. After the organization gets started, the faculty will not have to approve those eligible for membership.

For those interested in becoming members, a talk will be given by the governor of the Kentucky and Tennessee "Circle K" district, Ron Stuber, at 5 p.m. Tuesday in Memorial Hall.

Dr. Charles Manker, professor in the College of Education, is head of the "Circle K" committee for Kiwanis, and will also serve as faculty adviser for the organization.

Some of the Kiwanians who are members of the faculty backing the new organization are Dr. Frank Dickey, Vice Presidents Chamberlain and Peterson; Dean Lyman Ginger, College of Education; Dr. Thomas D. Clark, professor of history; and

Applications for membership are available in the office of the dean of men and should be filled out and returned by 5 p.m. Wednesday.

Parties And Formals Fill Weekend

By JEAN SCHWARTZ
Daily Society Editor

This is another one of those weekends when everyone will be busy sprinting to parties and formals.

The members of Kappa Alpha fraternity initiated their big weekend Wednesday night when they delivered invitations via horseback to their dates. Tonight they will attend the Sharecroppers' Ball at Joyland. Following a parade which begins at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow, they will head for the Phoenix Hotel for the Old South Ball. Then, to finish off the weekend in style, the KA's and their dates will spend Sunday at Sleepy Hollow.

Cincinnati will be the starting point for the SAE formal which is being held on a river boat. The members and their dates will travel down the Kentucky River with plenty of life preservers on hand no doubt.

The Lambda Chi Alphas and their dates will spend a quiet evening at home tonight at their hi-fi party.

The men of FarmHouse will entertain their dates at Lansdowne Country Club at their annual spring formal.

Tomorrow night the Alpha Delta Pi's will travel to the Spring Valley Country Club for their formal. The Sultans will provide the music for the dance which lasts from 8 p.m. to midnight.

The Phoenix Hotel will be the scene of the Delta Gamma formal tomorrow night from 8 p.m. to midnight.

Also donning their best clothes tomorrow night will be the Zeta Tau Alphas and their dates as they head for their formal which will be held at Joyland Little Casino. The theme of the dance is "The Twelfth of Never," and the Rejects will provide the music.

The Alpha Tau Omegas have decided to be individualists this weekend and hold a "Like-Grub" party tomorrow night at the chapter house. Everyone is supposed to wear their grubbier outfits and a prize will be awarded to the person wearing the most hideous creation.

The Alpha Gamma Rhos and their dates will spend tomorrow at Natural Bridge. This will also be the scene of the SuKy Picnic on Sunday.

This week's dance party will be held at Keeneland Hall tomorrow night. Joe Mills will emcee the dance and his guests will be the Darby 3.

SC Office Candidates Present Platforms

Brockman Platform

"We, the students of the University of Kentucky, in order to further the development of the ideals, character, and knowledge of the University and its students, to insure a maximum of self-government based upon mutual respect of the students and faculty and to promote the integrity of the University, with the realization that an effective and responsible student government can best accomplish these aims. . . ." (Preamble to the Student Congress Constitution.)

I, Jim Brockman, will if elected:

1. "In order to further the development of the ideals, character, and knowledge of the University and its students, . . ." continue to actively support the special projects of the past Student Congress such as:

The International Center, which was established by the Student Congress with the aid of the Deans of Women and Men, the Cosmopolitan Club, and the support of the YWCA and YMCA, and has as its aim the promotion of better international understanding by providing facilities which will involve both the University and the Lexington communities.

The Washington Seminar which has been established in cooperation with the Kentucky congressional delegation, and provides a summer of work and seminar in Washington for several UK students. Next year, this program can utilize the lessons learned from mistakes, and a vast improvement can be made.

Dr. Vandenbosch's and the Patterson faculty's book on world events since World War II.

I will also start at the beginning of the fall semester to continue the work and investigation of the possibilities of setting up a student book exchange. This program would enable all students to obtain their books at a much lower rate. The idea itself is not new, but it has not been fully carried out.

An organization study will also be enacted to find out if and where campus groups have overlapping duties. A campus activities committee could also be formed to coordinate all campus activities.

2. "In order to insure a maximum of self-government based upon mutual respect of the students and faculty, . . ." propose that the election procedure as stated in the constitution be amended to the effect that the officers of the congress be elected each spring by the entire student body so that the officers truly represent the feelings of the entire student body.

I will also try to encourage more people to run as representatives of their college when the general representative election is held in the fall so more interest will be created.

Furthermore, I will propose to amend the constitution to allow for a referendum provision which would give all students equal representation in Student Congress. A referendum is an issue submitted to the public for approval or disapproval by providing for a yes or no vote on whether or not the individual voter wants a particular act passed. The results of the vote would be binding upon the congress.

A referendum would give all students equal representation by providing that:

Where campus opinion or sentiment is strong on an issue, Student Congress may submit it to the students for approval.

Students may petition to the congress for a referendum when they can obtain enough signatures. The number of names required for petition should be sufficient to prevent harassment by a small dissatisfied minority on trivial issues or on issues which would not ordinarily warrant investigation by the Student Congress.

Student Congress, knowing this check on its power exists, will be hesitant to act against the general interest of the students at large.

3. "In order to promote the integrity of the University, . . ." actively support the administrations diligent effort to increase the academic standards of the University.

Also, an invitation will be submitted to each of the candidates for the office of United States senator from Kentucky to appear jointly at a public forum next fall in order to debate the issues or their campaign. The candidates for Governor of Kentucky in the 1963 election will also be issued similar invitations.

"With the realization that an effective student government can best accomplish these aims, . . ." I ask you to support me as the best possible candidate for the office of president of the University of Kentucky Student Congress.

JIM BROCKMAN

BROCKMAN

Lane Platform

My primary interest and effort will be to stimulate interest from all the students in the University and allow them to have a means of expressing their views.

One of the objects which will be studied will be a complete analysis of the present Student Congress Constitution; an administrative reorganization terminating in a more effective constitution with more coordination between both the students and the administration.

As was stated before, our University is the only university in the United States that allows students to help formulate policy concerning themselves. There are seven standing Faculty committees and numerous other committees. The students are allowed two members on each of these committees which govern student relations. Here is an excellent opportunity for the students to have a say in what is to be policy for the University.

One aspect which I feel is lacking in the University is the absence of important figures speaking to an entire student convocation. There is no reason why we couldn't have, say, Adlai Stevenson or Sen. Fulbright. Different departments in the different colleges have speakers, but the entire student body does not have this opportunity.

One important project which I shall start on is a study in conjunction with the Kentucky General Assembly and the Legislative Reference Commission in relation to establishing comparable academic standards in the different colleges and universities.

Too many students lose a great deal of their credits when transferring their credits to our University or when just transferring their credits from one college to another college within our University. It would be a study of the curriculum requirement of all colleges. This applies particularly to the Departments of English and Mathematics. This program would not be able to be finished in my term, but the groundwork would be laid for the program.

Another prevalent problem on campus is the parking problem. I would like to see the Campus Improvement Committee work on this problem. There are many ways of relieving some of the burdens of the parking problem. For example, the Infirmary is moving next fall to the Medical Center.

What will be done with this old building? Will it be torn down? If so, why couldn't there be a parking lot for students put there. And what about the Social Sciences Building? When they move, why couldn't that also be a student parking lot?

Another field of study will be to recommend that sophomore students be allowed to have registered cars on campus. It is my understanding that such proposals have already been made. I would like to see this idea carried out and put in effect as soon as possible.

As also was mentioned earlier, I plan to establish a foreign students exchange. This would be a program whereby a certain amount of students would be allowed to study in some foreign country for an amount of time. At this same time there would be the same amount of foreign students here at the University from the country which we sent students to study. This would be a program in which the countries which we sent students to, would be different each year.

There are other ideas being considered, but are still in the theoretical stage.

RALEIGH LANE

Newkirk Platform

Student Congress is the only organization that represents all University of Kentucky students. I feel it to be my duty to see that the student recognizes what Student Congress can provide and do for him, and I feel also that it would be my duty as president to provide through the congress an effective way of promoting the welfare of the individual student.

A student congress is ineffective and of little use if it only represents a small preselected group of the student body. If the students elect me as their president, I want each and everyone to feel that he is a part of his student government.

I want them to elect representatives who support their views, and I want the students to be continually assessing the worth of Student Congress, pointing out its faults and showing how it can be improved.

I feel that some amendments to the constitution are desperately needed in order to improve the functioning of the congress. I was very disheartened to see that a mere quorum was present at the nominating meeting, and many meetings are carried on without a quorum.

I therefore propose that if a representative misses more than three meetings he be dismissed from his office as representative and that his vacancy be filled at the end of each semester.

Perhaps an amendment of this nature would discourage those inconsiderate students who seek the office of representative merely for its glory, social status, and as another achievement to add to their list of activities. The students of this University deserve something better than a meaningless government composed of the "privileged few."

Remember that every student should be a part of this student government. I promise to you that I will always have an open ear to any student and will very much appreciate his suggestions.

I support the International Center established by Student Congress this year. I plan to continue this project and hope to see it grow.

I feel that one of the main reasons Student Congress cannot attack problems and initiate ambitious programs is because of the lack of sufficient revenue. I will see that every possibility for increasing the revenue of Student Congress is investigated.

I understand that Joe Coughlin is running on this platform; however, this is not to be construed as an endorsement as I am running independently of any slate.

Several places in this platform I mentioned "privileged few," "pre-selected group," and "slate." Let me explain of what I am speaking.

The "privileged few" think they have already decided the outcome of this election from the highest office to the last seat on the Judiciary Board. The "slate" has already appointed twice as many members to the Judiciary Board as there are seats on the board.

Thus, it seems the first official act of the "privileged few" would be to double the size of the Judiciary Board, yet we doubt if you'll find this in their platform. As I have pointed out, I am not running on a slate. I am not committed to any candidates or to any appointments.

I close by saying that I would be able to work harmoniously with Ron Nickell and any other uncommitted candidates.

Students Comment On SC Elections

By JIM CURTIS
Kernel Staff Writer

Several students expressed opinions Wednesday on the new Student Congress election to be held Monday, May 14.

Jim Powell, sophomore mathematics major from Lexington, said, "I think it's a good idea. It's the Student Congress, and it should be put back in the hands of the students."

Cindy Spenser, Arts and Sciences freshman from Louisville, said, "I think it's a good idea in theory, but in practice it may not work since many of the students do not vote. They don't take the opportunity. We will just have to wait and see how it works."

Bob Wilson, engineering freshman from Lexington, commented, "I believe nominations should be campuswide. College people aren't dumb enough to vote for someone just because he is a swinger."

"There should be University-wide voting for the officers, and collegewide voting for the representatives with the votes coming from their own college, just like in the United States government," he said.

"Patti Gill, freshman in the College of Arts and Sciences from Pennsylvania, commented, "It sounds good if the students would cooperate. I think one should have time and experience in the Student Congress before holding office."

Miss Gill added that the nominee for office should be very familiar with the Student Congress and its functions.

Jan Drutz, sophomore premed student from Louisville, said, "I feel the Student Congress may be able to know the best qualified people to hold office, but maybe other students not as well known may be just as qualified."

Prof Reviews 'Jacaranda Tree'

By J. H. PEAK
Professor of Spanish

For the delectation of all, "The Jacaranda Tree," a comedy by the Spaniard, Alejandro Casona, opened Wednesday night in the Guignol Theatre.

This charming little play was first presented in Buenos Aires in 1949. Since that time it has been translated into many languages, but in any idiom "The Jacaranda Tree" would come out well, for its universality—there is really nothing in it exclusively Spanish, its poetic atmosphere, its very original theme, and Casona's natural play-making ability. In all of Casona's works, the prevailing mood is that of a romantic kind of poetry—a happy combination of the real and the unreal.

"The Jacaranda Tree," a comedy in three acts, describes the activities of a highly unusual organization of altruistic people who, with the funds made available to them by a mysterious Dr. Ariel, "practice charity in a poetic way," quoting from one of the lines spoken by Maurice, the "chief" of the organization. Most of Act I is taken up with humorous description of their work. It is only near the end of this act that the audience is presented with the slight plot conflict. The audience is interested in the outcome, but is not seriously worried about it, when the curtain comes down on Act I.

The Spanish title, "Los arboles mueren de pie," or "Trees Die Standing," refers to the stalwart figure of the grandmother, who reveals unsuspected strength at the crisis in Act III. She declares that like a tree she will die standing rather than yield to pressures which, influencing her life for many years, have grown quite strong.

"The Jacaranda Tree" is appealing for its originality of plot and the charm of at least two of the principal characters. The grandmother is an admirable creation, a beautiful character sensitively portrayed by Renee Arena. Mrs. Arena has appeared in several Guignol plays and has directed for the Lexington Children's Theatre.

Phyllis Haddix is well cast as Martha-Isabel, a winsome character recreated with ability and understanding. She, too, has appeared in many Guignol plays.

The role of Maurice is skillfully performed by Jim Stone. His performance in "The Jacaranda Tree" rivals his Mephistopheles, one of many parts played at Guignol by this talented actor.

Stuart Silbar realistically lives the role of Balboa, a kindly old man who strives gallantly to preserve the illusions of his wife, the grandmother. Considerable acting ability is demonstrated in the portrayal of the minor roles, promising continuing dramatic excellence for Lexington's theatre-goers.

Charles Dickens, the director, reveals great professional ability and has reason to be proud of his accomplishment with "The Jacaranda Tree."

The sets and decor are a tribute to Professor Ray Smith and his stage crew. The warmth and comfort of the Balboa home in Acts II and III are a welcome contrast to the necessary efficiency and coldness of the office-factory setting in Act I. The Balboa living room decor is as good as any professionally designed Broadway set I have seen.

"The Jacaranda Tree" is a welcome treat for the modern stage—a respite from the sordid and unwholesome, so much a part of the stage today—for its good taste, its decency, and its old-fashioned charm. Such plays should be given more often.

Commerce Prof Gets Fellowship

Prof Herman A. Ellis, of the College of Commerce has been awarded a "Fellowship in Economics in Action" at the Case Institute of Technology in Cleveland, Ohio.

Ellis is one of 50 college teachers chosen for the program which was on a competitive basis.

The fellowship program is a four-week, all expenses paid study grant running from June 14 to July 15.

Ellis explained that approximately 50 percent of his research will be on campus. The other half will be spent in interviews and visitations with businesses in the Cleveland area.

The purpose of the study will be the application of economic theories to real situations. "We want to see if what we teach in the classroom is being practiced," Ellis said.

UK Women Need More Elbow Room

By SUE ENDICOTT
Kernel Staff Writer

With the sudden increase in women's enrollment at the University, the existing campus housing facilities are becoming totally inadequate.

At the present time there are 45 women living in overflow housing units, 85 women in Bowman Hall, and 55 women in study rooms and guest rooms in the dormitories.

About 400 women were living in overflow units of some type at the beginning of the school year. This included 98 women occupying the three middle sections of Bowman Hall in the Men's Quadrangle, 100 women in off campus overflow units, and 200 women living in guest rooms and study rooms or living three girls in a room originally designed for only two in existing dormitories.

Miss Dixie Evans, director of women's residence halls, said the new dormitory opening in September, 1963, won't begin to solve the problem because it will house only 188 women. This, she said, won't even cover the number who are now living in overflow facilities.

The registrar's office says that, within the next five years, women's enrollment will exceed that of men's if the present trend continues.

Miss Evans believes there are three basic reasons why women's enrollment at UK has increased so rapidly:

1. Kentucky families with both a son and a daughter to educate are sending their sons out of state and their daughters to UK.

2. The University is inexpensive and parents are not willing to put as much money into a girl's education as they are a boy's.

3. As people make more money they are able to send daughters as well as sons to college.

Miss Evans said that she and Dr. Doris Seward, dean of women, are currently working on plans to get new dormitories placed on the building schedule and are trying to decide how many residence units will be needed and how often they should be built.

She said the University as yet does not want to begin refusing admission to women applicants until the situation becomes more acute. Neither do they want to turn away out-of-state students at the present time because of the housing situation.

When asked about the opinion of some state students who believed it was unfair that they were living in overflow units while out-of-state women were living in regular dormitories, Miss Evans had this to say:

"We don't want to have in-state and out-of-state dorms. Neither do we want to penalize out-of-state students and not in-state students for late applications."

SU Board Plans Installation

An installation banquet for officers of the Student Union Board will be held at 5:30 p.m. Thursday at Levas' Restaurant on South Limestone.

Miss Mackie Rasdall, director of the Student Union Building, will install Barbara Johnson, Ashland, president; Jack Ewing, Greensburg, vice president; Martha Greenwood, Hopkinsville, secretary, and Gretchen Myers, Sabina, Ohio, treasurer.

Also attending the banquet will be Kris Zarger, Lexington, and Nina Stroup, Owensboro, personnel committee; Betsy Dudley, Lexington; Elaine Brite, Hardinsburg; and Ophelia Speight, Fulton, publicity committee.

Vivian Shipley, Erlanger, and Ann Hatcher, Lexington, Recreation Committee; Sharon Perkins, Versailles, Ann McDonough, Miami, Fla., and Gail Houston, Murray, Social Committee; Pattie White, Paris, Special Events, Committee; and Glynda Stephens, Williamsburg, and Fred Gardner, Hopkinsville, SUB Topics Committee.

In My Defense . . .

This writer has been the object of great criticism of late for writing two columns, concerning football, without having attended practice. Odd, since the columns weren't about practice in the first place.

This writer has simply offered the opinion that boys who quit should not all be classified as "quitters," guys who just couldn't take it. Some might deserve a second chance; that's what these articles were about.

Let me remind the critics of people who hold this opinion of a certain young man named . . . oh yes, Darrell Cox. This young man rejoined the team this week.

The second problem which was mentioned in these columns was that of athletics' present organization in the American university complex. I still contend that this problem exists.

While talking to Coach Bradshaw the other day I was impressed by the sincerity with which he talked about athletics and their value. He was candid and convincing. Still, I am doubtful.

He mentioned the fact that the student body can see, in the playing of competitive sports, an example of self-reliance, poise, and courage being used to meet opposition and overcome it.

This is true, and, if the student body as a whole were to accept sports as exemplary of an attitude toward living, there would be a definite and lasting value to it. But how many do?

The vast majority of students go to watch sports events for entertainment, not for moral strengthening. And I doubt that esthetic values are obtained through osmosis.

I'll be at the football games next year, and the basketball, and all the rest. I'll enjoy being a spectator and writer just as I always have. But I'll hold on to my conviction that sports are not in their proper perspective. . . . Amen.

Coach Clinic Announced, Headlined By Rupp, Royal

By DAVID HAWPE

Kernel Daily Sports Editor
UK's annual Coaching Clinic, scheduled for August 8-11 this year, will feature a sparkling array of experts in the coaching field who will counsel Kentucky prep mentors in the latest techniques.

Heading the basketball section is the world's most respected authority on the subject, Kentucky's Adolph Rupp. Coach Rupp's qualifications are obvious, and his accomplishments do not need listing.

Two coaches from tremendously successful football teams will conduct the pigskin sections—Coach Charlie Bradshaw, who came to Kentucky via his post on the coaching staff of Alabama, the 1961 national champions, and Darrell Royal, head coach for the high ranking Texas Longhorns.

Royal, a former All-America quarterback at Oklahoma, has produced four bowl teams in five years with the Longhorn eleven. His teams have been characterized by technical skill, teamwork, and all-out effort.

Bradshaw is now in his first position as head coach and faces the task of revamping Kentucky's waning gridiron fortunes. He has been characterized as quietly determined, confident, possessing integrity, and tough.

Assisting Coach Rupp in basketball tutoring duties will be Clair Bee of New York Military Academy. Bee is billed as "one of America's finest cage fundamentalists. . . ." Says the brochure, "He is credited with originating the 1-3-1 zone defense and the three-second rule. . . ."

Harry Lancaster will conduct the baseball clinic, as well as assist Rupp in the basketball section. John Heber of Lexington Henry Clay High School will be

High school coaches will be admitted to the clinics free of charge; out of state college coaches will pay a registration fee.

Special events during the program will include a barbecue on Friday night, and East-West All-Star Basketball and Football Games. The Clinic is sponsored by the University of Kentucky Athletics Association.

Wildcats End Regular Season; Finish With Mediocre Record

By WALLY PAGAN
Kernel Sports Writer

Although spring has just recently come into the Blue Grass, Kentucky's major spring sport has come to an end. Kentucky's baseball Wildcats concluded their season by blasting cellar-dwelling Vanderbilt in both games of a doubleheader Saturday.

In taking a look at the Cat's mediocre 12-7-1 record, it is not representative of the type of team Coach Harry Lancaster put out this season.

The Wildcats got off to a flying start by whipping Eastern at Richmond in their opener. They then swung south for their usual treacherous tour, but this year's road trip was a different story. The Cats were only beaten once by Georgia Tech while downing Georgia, Georgia Tech Oglethorpe, and Vanderbilt. They also managed a 12-12 tie with Vandy which was called because of darkness.

The trip was a success, record-wise, but it also brought troubles. Hard hitting Allen Feldhaus was in the middle of a hitting slump, and pitching star "Skip" Noelker was sidelined with a pulled muscle. He had a 2-0 record at the time and was lost indefinitely.

The Cats then returned home to once more whip Eastern and Tennessee before dropping their first game at the Sports Center in 14 tries over a two-season period to Tennessee.

That first loss on the Sports Center diamond proved disastrous and set the stage for the Cats worst week. They proceeded to drop two important games to Florida and one to Auburn before beating the Tigers for the first time in UK history in the final of the two game series.

With their title hopes dimmed, the Cats moved to Tennessee and dropped two of three to the Vols. They wrapped up the season by downing Vanderbilt three straight.

Allen Feldhaus captured the hitting crown for the Cats with a .338 average, and Skip Noelker led the pitching staff with a 4-0 record. Cotton Nash led the Wildcats in runs-batted-in with 23.

Softball Tournament Is Set For Next Week

By MIKE SMITH

Intramural Tournament time is here again. Next week the softballers go to it, fraternities, dormitories, and independents representing numerous organizations around campus.

With regular season now completed, many tournament teams are still not known, though some have already clinched berths for the final round.

Five teams may bring perfect records into the tournament. Presently, Baptist Student Union, Staff (a squad made up of dormitory counselors), Phi Sigma Kappa, Triangle, and the Brick Bandits have unmarred slates.

Pairings were made Wednesday night following completion of league play, with those holding the best records being seeded accordingly. The top two from each division are eligible, and all involved in ties will be allowed to take part.

As of now, leading contenders for tourney spots are:

Fraternity League
Division I—Sigma Chi (4-1), Delta Tau Delta (4-1), Alpha Gamma Rho (3-1).

Division II—Triangle (5-0), Sigma Alpha Epsilon (3-1), Kappa Sigma (2-2).

Division III—Phi Sigma Kappa (4-0), Pi Kappa Alpha (3-1), Sigma Phi Epsilon (2-1), Phi Delta Theta (2-1).

Dormitory League
Division I—Staff (2-0), Haggin C-2its (2-1).

Division II—Brick Bandits (2-0), D-2 Paddockers (1-1), Bradley Bombers (2-2).

Independent League
Division I—BSU (2-0), ME (2-1), Microbes (1-2).
Division II—Tigers (3-1), Swamp Rats (3-1), ASME (3-1).

WBKY Retains Station Manager

Kathy Roper White, manager of University FM station WBKY, yesterday was chosen to continue in that capacity through the summer semester.

The announcement was made by O Leonard Press, head of the Department of Radio, Television, and Films, which advises the student-operated station.

The department will not name a manager for the fall semester until later.

Mrs. White said the station would add to its schedule programs in Spanish literature, short stories, poetry, and music appreciation.

Social Work Award Given

Senior social work major, Nancy Jane Percival, received the Breckinridge Chapter of the National Association of Social Workers Award at a dinner last night at the Lexington YMCA.

Miss Percival, of Hickory, N.C., was chosen unanimously by the Award Committee of the Breckinridge Chapter. Since transferring from Martha Washington College of the University of Virginia, she has been on the dean's list every semester.

To receive the Breckinridge Award, a student must not only maintain a high academic standing but also possess personality characteristics indicating an ability to get along well with other people.

Miss Percival plans to begin graduate studies in social work in September.

Grade School To Be Converted

Space made available by the termination of the first six grades of the University School in the College of Education will be converted into classrooms and office space.

The first six grades will no longer be taught after the present academic year according to Dean Lyman V. Ginger of the College of Education.

Two rooms formerly occupied by a kindergarten will be converted into four offices. Two of these will be available for staff members in guidance and counseling, special education, and vocational rehabilitation. A secretarial office and a waiting room are planned for the other two offices.

The former second grade will be used as an office for the Division of Administration and Supervision. It will be remodeled to accommodate five staff offices and will have space for three secretaries.

The first grade classroom will be used for a large college classroom while the third and fourth grade rooms on the second floor will be used for a reading and child-study center.

Space vacated by the administration division will also be converted into another classroom and more office space.

Commerce Group Initiates 18 Students, Professor

Beta Sigma Gamma, College of Commerce honorary, initiated 18 students and one faculty member in ceremonies yesterday.

Speaker for the initiation banquet was William A. Toombs, supervisor of customer services for Sears, Roebuck and Co., and a 1948 graduate of UK. Toombs accumulated a perfect 4.0 standing while a student here.

New initiates include Dr. Carlos C. Erwin, associate professor of economics; Donald Bender, Frankfort; John Bingham, Pineville; Charles S. Boyd, Frankfort; Nancy Bradley, Louisville.

John Bronaugh, Lexington; Peggy Chadwick, Lexington; Mary Cinnamon, Bondville; Richard Day, Jenkins; Emerson Eastwood, Freeport; Robert Fears, Princeton; Max Haught, Eubank; Roger Hilpp, Fairlawn, N.J.; Carol Lotz, Louisville; Anita Moore, Lexington; Dale Osborne, Lexington; James Richards, Paris; David Thornton, Kenton; and Duncan White, Chicago.

Microbiologists Go To Kansas Meet

University staff members will present about seven percent of the 546 papers at the 62nd annual meeting of the American Society of Microbiology in Kansas City on May 6-10.

This estimate was made by Dr. Morris Scherago, Head of the Department of Microbiology, and the head of the UK delegation.

Staff members on the program are Dr. Scherago, Dr. Edwards, Dr. Hotchkiss, Dr. Humphries, Dr. Wiseman, and Dr. P. S. Sarma.

Graduate students Paul Armstrong, William M. Beheler, Hugh E. Gerlach, and Roger Johnson will also present papers. A paper coauthored by Harold Haines, a graduate student who cannot attend, also will be read.

Dr. Scherago will participate in a roundtable discussion, and two UK alumni will preside over other sessions.
